1. Junior Shakia Pennix served against Nelson. She had 13 kills that match which led the team to a three-game victory over the Governors.

2. Jake Page, senior, was very excited about missing class for the senior class picture.

3. The senior class went wild when they were called on to make some noise in the spirit stick competition. Their enthusiasm won them the coveted prize.

EVERYONE'S FAMOUS IN A SMALL SCHOOL!

At ACHS everyone knows everyone - not just the star athlete or the prettiest girl. Of course, there are groups of friends, but we don't just limit ourselves to the people we grew up with or the ones that we hang out with. Because our school is small, we know and care about each other and that's what makes every student in our school famous.

4. Senior Annie Terry surprised R. C. Christian on his birthday by decorating his locker.

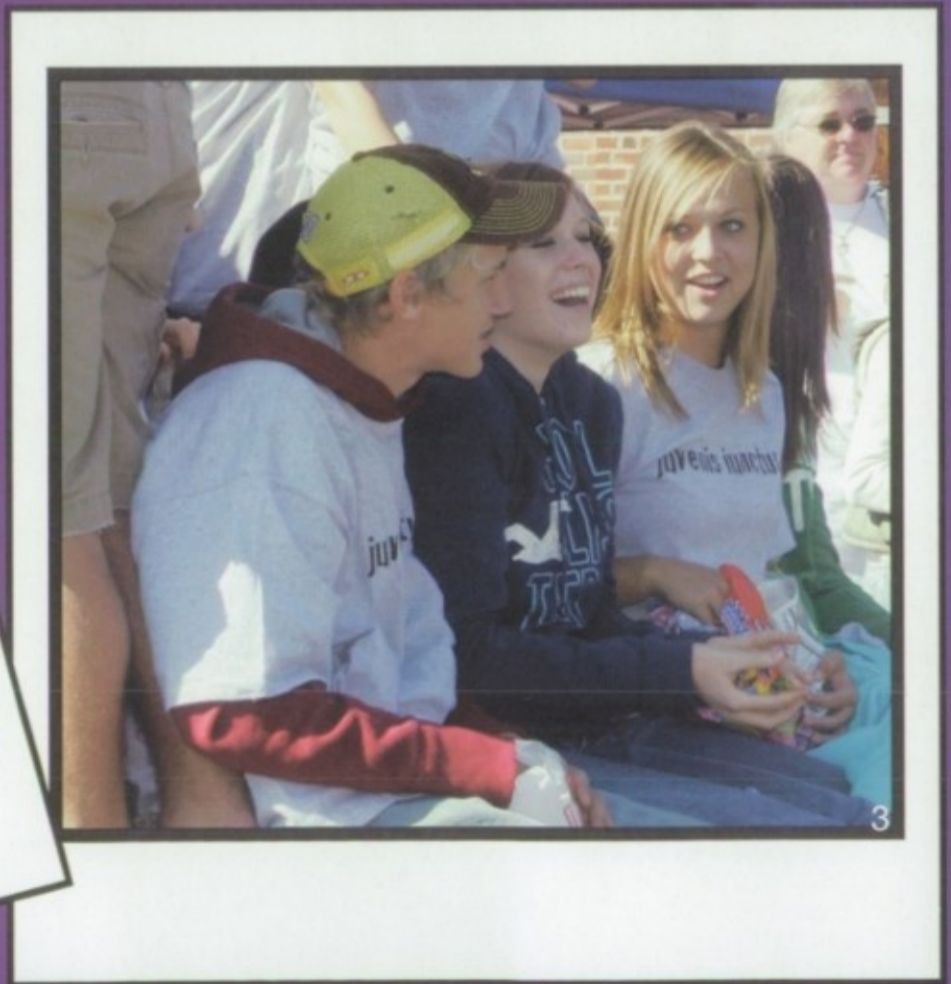

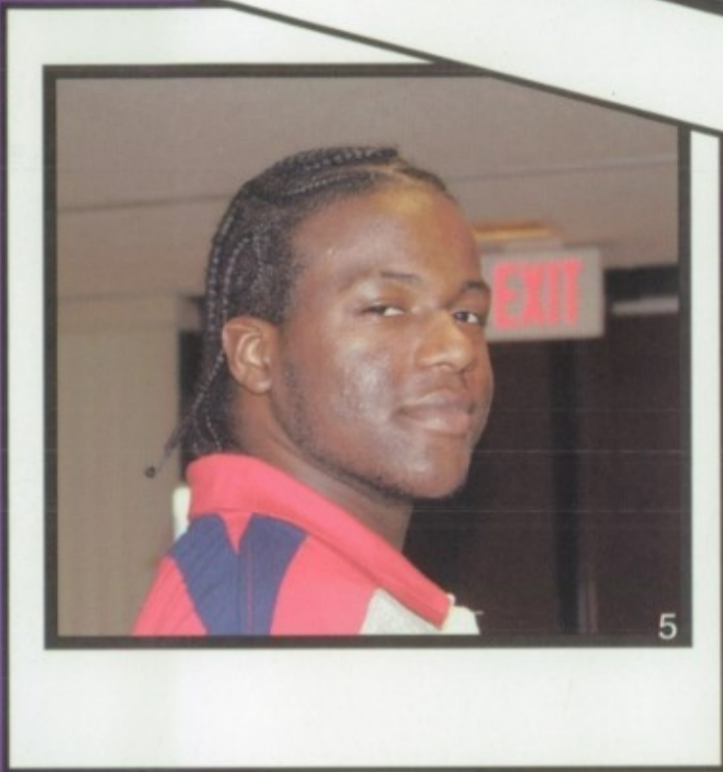

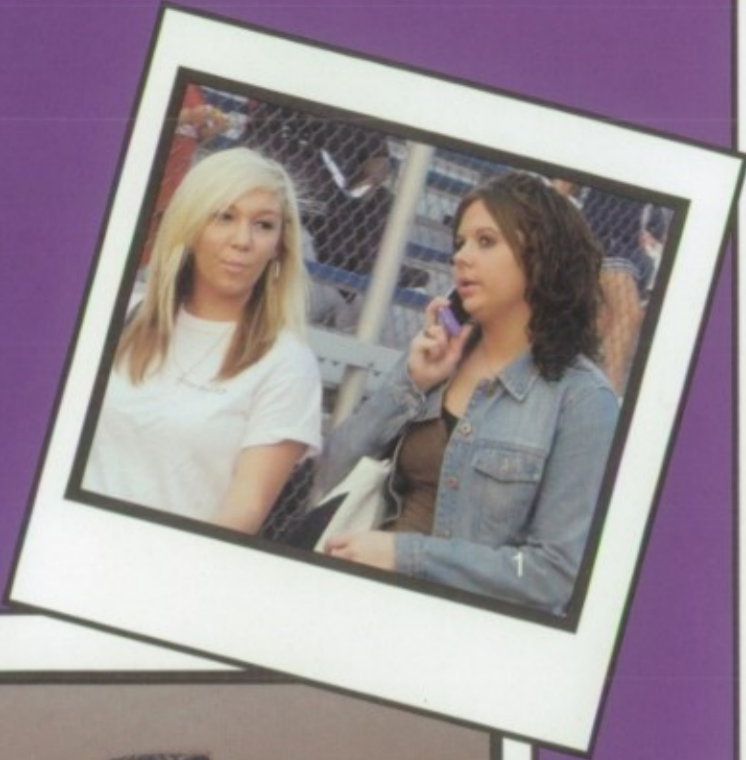

5. Junior Earl Bowman yelled as loud as he could to help his class in the spirit stick competition.

Student Life

We began an exciting year at ACHS as seniors planned and anticipated their futures while underclassmen made the most of their year. Students were very enthusiastic about supporting the year's many academic activities and outstanding Raider sports teams. Whether we watched or participated, we all celebrated the successes and shared the disappointments of life in our small community.

- 1. Senior Bradford Harvey
- 2. Sophomores Magan Mayberry and Jessica Martin
- 3. Juniors Brad Smith and Sarah Wingfield
- 4. Junior Lamar Booker
- 5. Juniors Justin Scott and Melanie Letterman

1. Juniors Kate Harris and Michelle Hudson
2. Sophomores Kasey Burks and Magan Mayberry, freshman Bryce Bradshaw, and senior Adam Yeatts
3. Sophomore Jacob Yeatts, freshmen Whitney Harris and Rachel Mayberry
4. Juniors Morgan Watts, Monica Hodges, Susan Tyree, Libby Wheeler, Sydney Duncan, Amanda Pridetti, and Sami Oliveri
5. Sophomore Michael Pennix

One thing that everyone looks forward to each year is the Railroad Festival. The shoulder-to-shoulder crowd was rated the largest in history with an estimate of 35,000 people, which coincides with it being the 35th year it has been held in the town of Appomattox. The festival took place on October 13th and 14th. It was said that the gorgeous weather contributed to the outstanding success of this year's Railroad Festival. This year everyone got together and had a blast spending time with friends and family, playing games, listening to music, and attending the street dance and the fireworks. All in all, this year's Railroad Festival was an event to remember... until next year.

Brittany McCormick, junior, enjoyed her Brunswick stew while she visited with her friends.

Railroad Festival

October 13th and 14th

Jessica McGregor, junior, enjoyed the Railroad Festival while representing Baldwin for sheriff.

At 10 a.m. a banner announced the beginning of the Historic Railroad Festival parade.

Morgan Watts and Susan Tyree, juniors, posed for the camera with the popular Turkey Hill cow.

April Garrett, senior, rode in the parade on an Appomattox fire truck to support their cause.

1. Julie Overman, senior, called her friends to invite them to come join her at the festival.

3. Amanda Dolan, junior, was Miss Five County Fair.

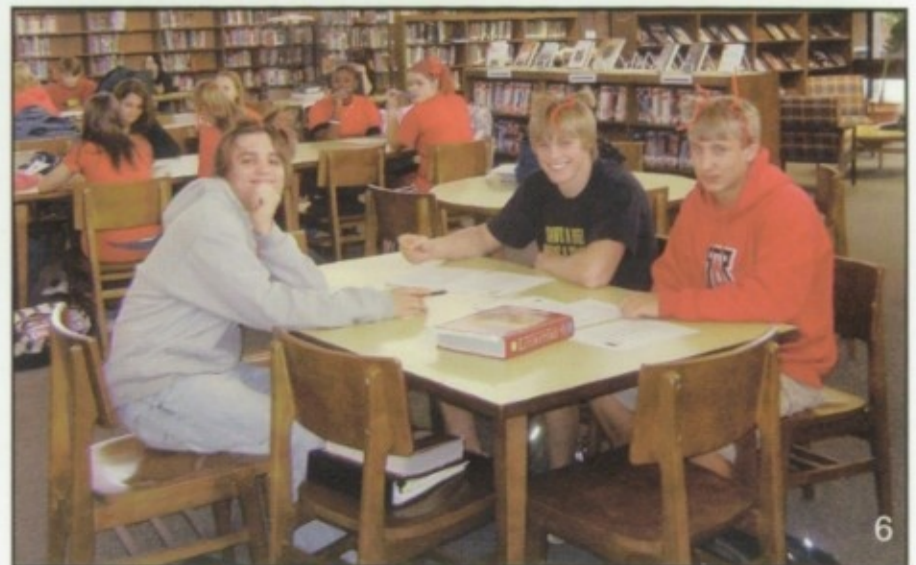

4. Andy Dunn, senior, played the trumpet while he walked in the parade with the marching band for the last time.

5. Alex Mayberry, Matt Franklin, freshmen, rode together in this crazy ride that swirled you around until you couldn't stand it any longer!

6. Katelyn Hall, junior, Dominique Panky, sophomore, Nuria Rico, freshman, cheered in the parade for the Appomattox Varsity football team.

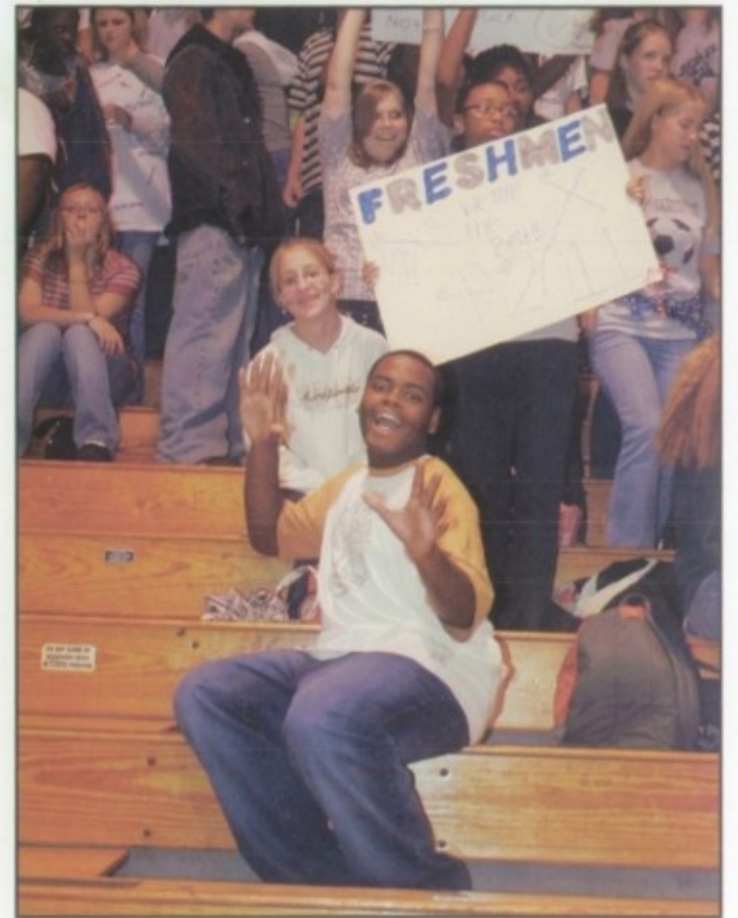

1. Seniors Jordan Moore, Nicole Hudson, Annie Terry, and Brittany Webber began drawing the door decoration for homecoming in hopes of winning the best decorated door contest, but Mrs. White's class won the honor.
2. Danielle Everton, junior, shyly showed her class color when asked if she had any class spirit.
3. Trevor Barksdale, senior, looked silly with suspenders in his College English class on Crazy Day.
4. Seniors Jon Ford and Emily Clark looked good together in black with Emily as Catwoman and Jon as Neo from the Matrix.
5. Josh Bradshaw, senior, jumped with ecstasy after his class won the pep rally.
6. Juniors Nathan Bowling, Dalton Bennett, and Nick Muddiman showed off for their class colors by wearing red.

Courtney Blanchard, senior, helped paint the backdrop for the Homecoming Dance before going to the pep rally.

Spirit Week is a time for having fun and hoping to win the spirit stick at the pep rally. But this year, because of a Monday holiday, we only had four days to express our utmost Raider spirit and people seemed genuinely disappointed. As for the door decoration contest, Mrs. White's class won and were awarded a free breakfast. Nevertheless, all of the classes prevailed and really got into the school spirit. The pep rally was full of positive fun with no booing the other classes. The senior class won the spirit stick for cheering the loudest.

Freshmen Kevin Womack and Ashley Wingo cheered loud at the pep rally, but not as hard as the seniors, who won the spirit stick at the end.

Spirit Week

October 9-12

Juniors Mary Bryant and Susan Tyree looked pretty wacky for Crazy Day

Mrs. Boyer and Ms. Bloomfield posed during the pep rally

Jessica Robertson, senior, hung out in the guidance office on Crazy Day

Juniors Kawana Pankey and Whitney Robertson coordinated during Character Day

Julie Overman, senior, not only dressed crazy but acted crazy as well.

For the first time in years there was not a threat of showers. The night was full of wonderful memories with family, friends, and Raiders alike. There was a huge turn out, and that helped uphold the spirits of the football team, who won the Homecoming game for the first time in five years. Kevin Hawkins and Briana Lee were crowned Homecoming King and Queen for 2007. The Homecoming dance was a success. The students enjoyed themselves and danced the night away.

Seniors Josh Tanner and Rachel Webster.

Homecoming

October 12

Ms. Bloomfield, Ms. Navarro, and Ms. Boyer were all smiles as they busted a move at the homecoming dance.

Shantell Brooks, sophomore, cheers and celebrates for the Raiders at the homecoming game.

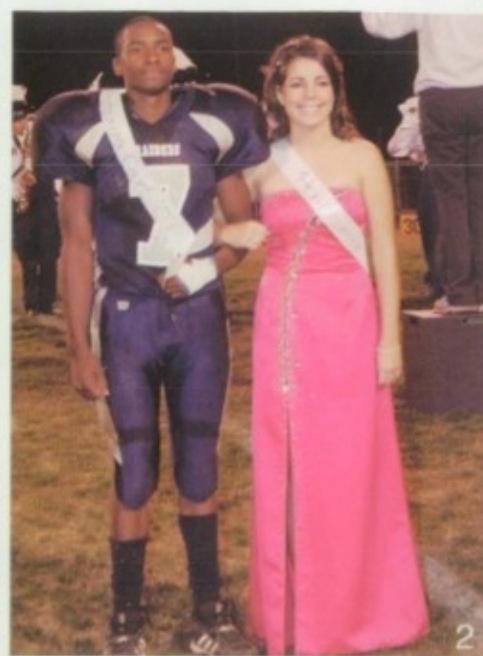

Shanika Hamlette, sophomore, marched out on the field with the marching band to play the National Anthem.

Seniors Cory Morgan and Rachel Webster took a break from dancing to just sit and enjoy the rest of their night.

Sophomores Kayla Eubanks and Lakeita Gough waved to the camera while on the dance floor.

1. Seniors Kevin Hawkins and Briana Lee earned the most votes from their fellow classmates and won the title of King and Queen 2007. Kevin said, "It feels good to be ACHS king knowing that the senior class wanted me to represent them, thanks." Briana said, "It's good to know that the school voted me as their queen."

2. Sophomores Rico Rose and Brandi Shotwell

3. Sophomores Kenny Scott and Lauren Cabaniss won prince and princess for the sophomore class. Lauren said, "The best part about being on the homecoming court was being escorted by my boyfriend Kenny Scott." Kenny said, "The best part about being on the court was looking up in the fans and seeing my family."

4. Juniors Dalton Bennett and Sarah Wingfield

Sarah Wingfield was chosen by the junior class as princess and she said that the best part about being on homecoming court was being escorted by Dalton Bennett and wearing Mel's hot shoes.

5. Juniors Nicolas Muddiman and Ashley Dickerson. Nick said, "The best part about being on the homecoming court was being recognized and getting a cool keychain."

6. Freshmen Bryce Bradshaw and Tyler Reeves were the winning prince and princess for the freshman class. Bryce said that the best part about being on the court was "walking down the field and seeing all the people in the stands." Tyler's favorite part about being on the court was being able to represent the freshman class.

7. Freshmen Thomas McCoy and Megan Campbell

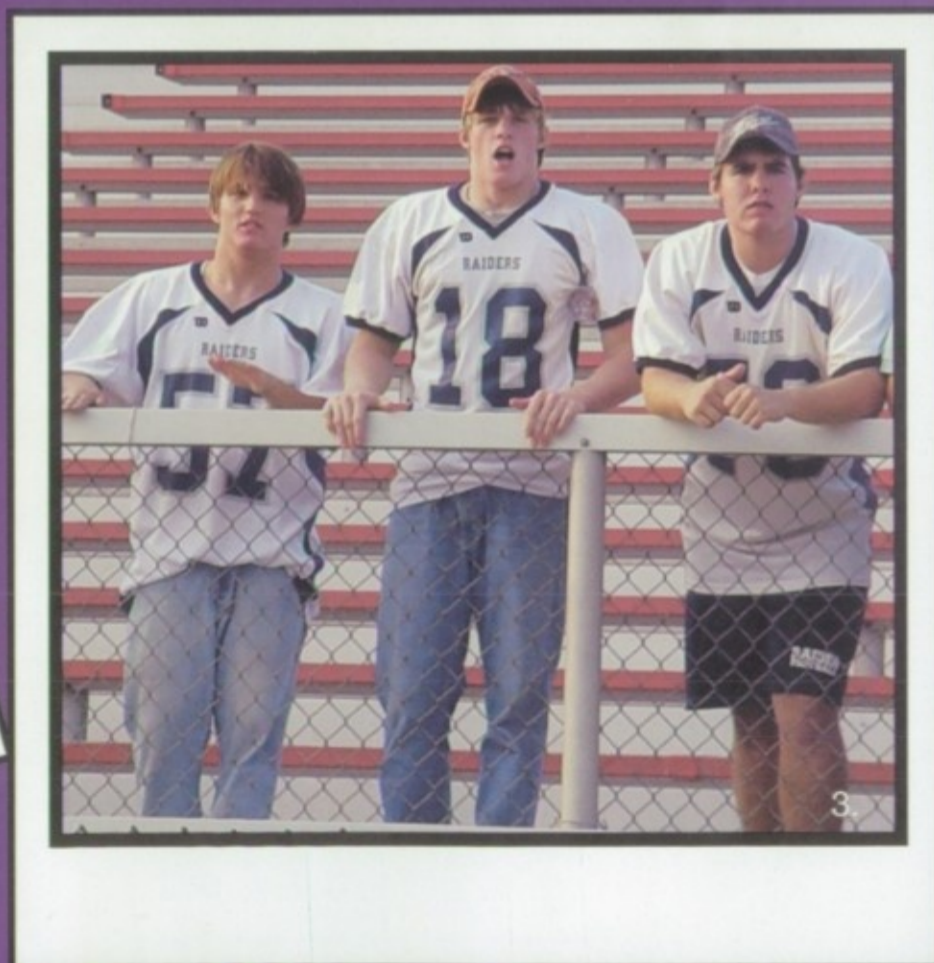

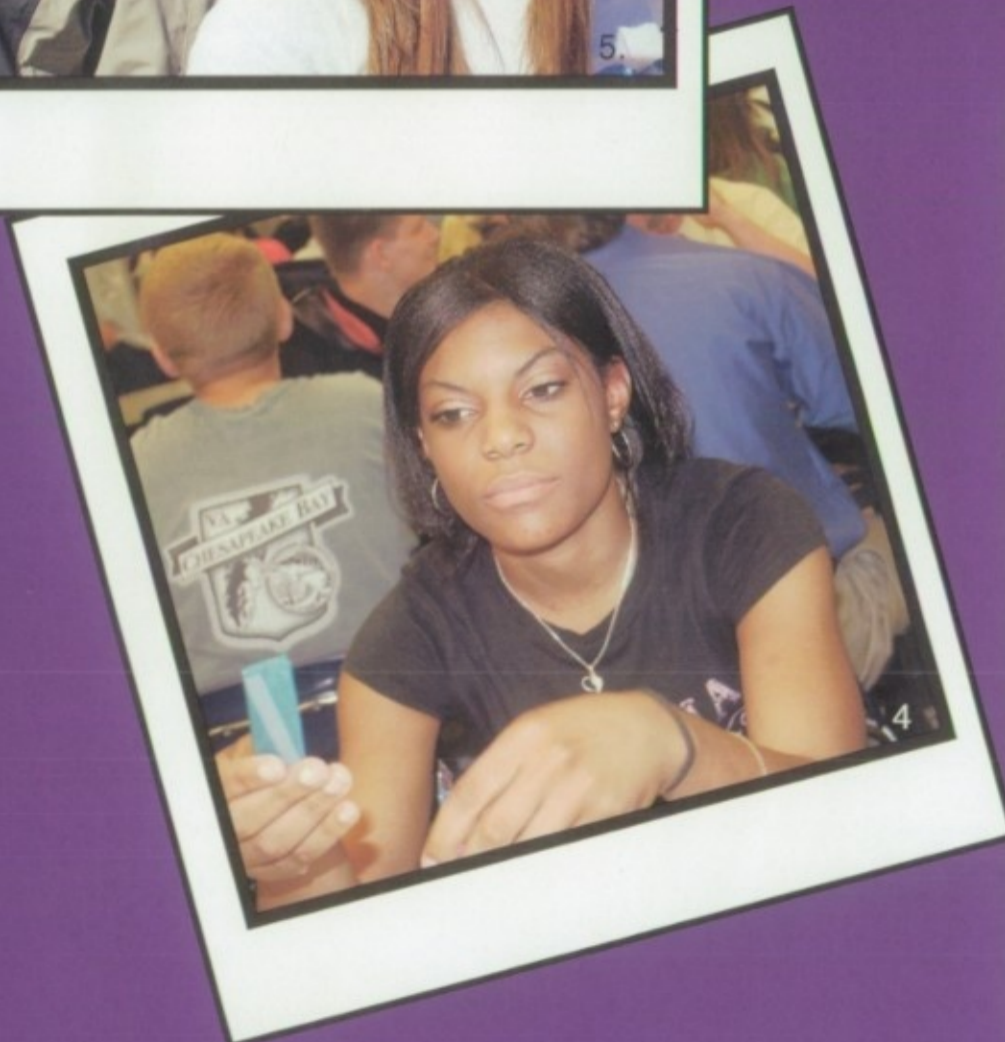

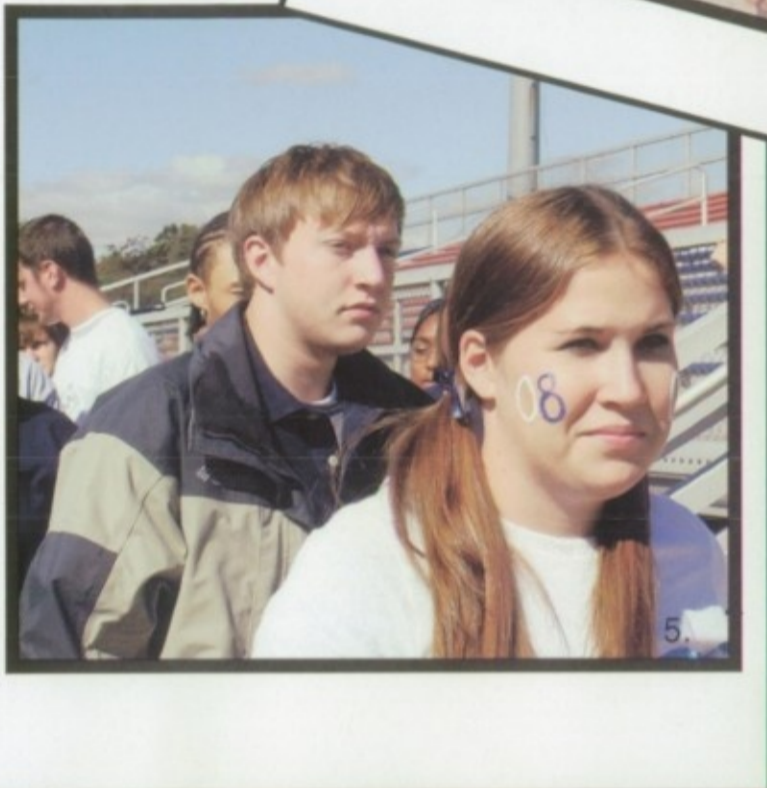

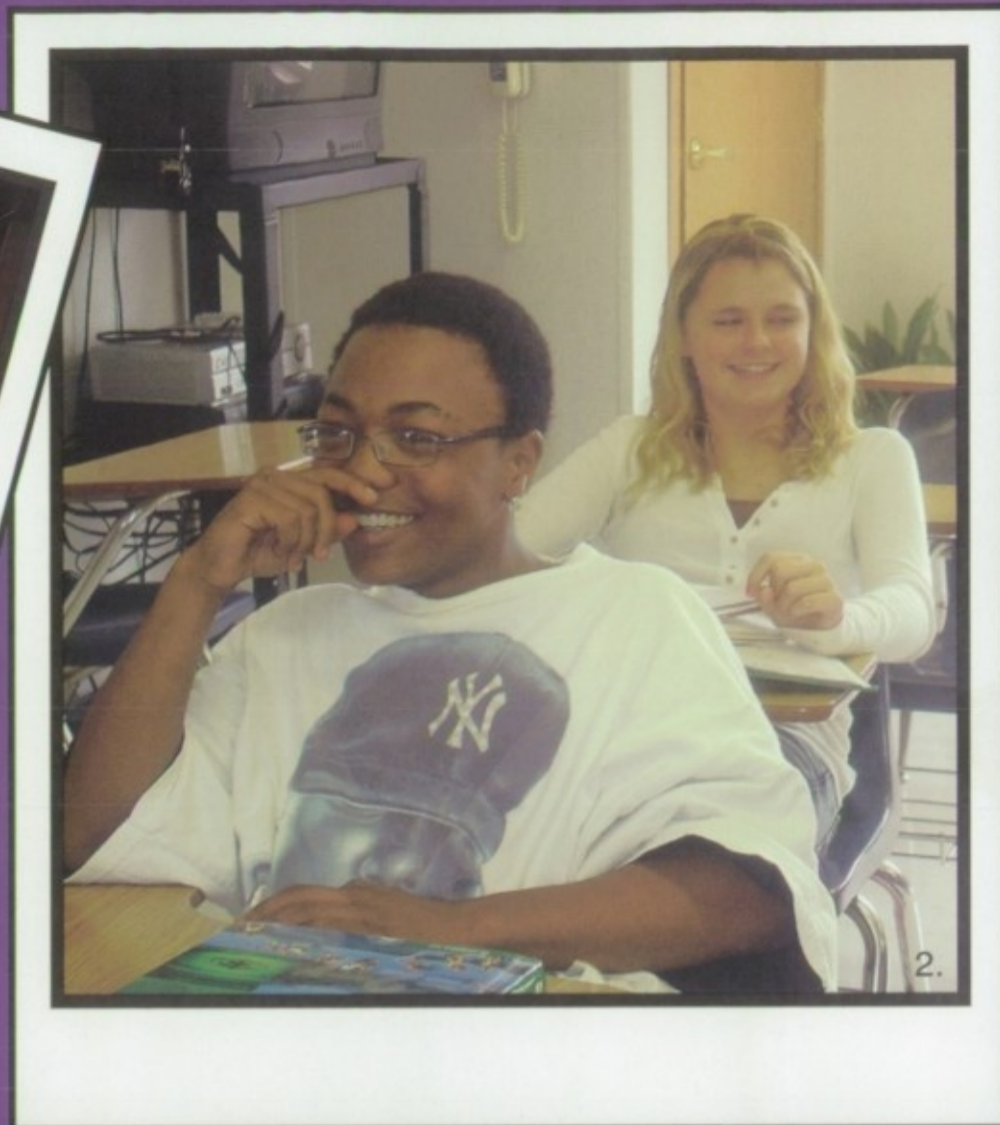

People

The 2007-2008 school year brought out the star in everyone. Like all stars, we experienced the ups of fame like the excitement of college acceptance letters and winning seasons. However, we also had the downside of fame while we endured the stress of grades and relationships. Nevertheless, we supported each other through it all and finished another great year at ACHS.

1. Kenny Scott, sophomore
2. William Morgan, senior
3. Jasmine Hamlette, sophomore
4. Amanda Prioletti, junior

Class of '08!

Juniors

Academics

Whether challenging their book smarts or their creative left brains, students took full advantage of the many opportunities available to them. Seniors earned college credit by taking dual enrollment classes and students were seen arriving and leaving ACHS as they attended classes at the new CVCC satellite campus in town. Other students prepared for their future by enrolling in the many AP courses. Of course, everyone tried their best on the SOL tests.

Creative Arts

Senior Brianna Foster, winner of the most artistic senior superlative, defines creative arts as a freedom to express opinions through art in whatever form it may take. Art is Brianna's favorite form of creative arts. "When I draw I'm free to escape to my own world," said Brianna. The picture above is titled "Illusion Through Time" and was drawn by Brianna Foster.

Sophomores Christine McRae and Renae Worley work on make-up in Mr. Bell's drama class. They were learning how to change someone's age with make-up.

Right: Sophomore Quashay Jones pushed the cart while other students moved the plants for horticulture class.

Ag, Automotives, & Horticulture

Right: Juniors Jeremy Smith, Stacie Scholten, Ashley Harris, and senior Courtney Blanchard were the veterinary science career team members.

"My favorite thing to do is fix things. It's cool."

-Sidney Mathews, sophomore

"I like that my friends can bring in their cars, and then we work on them together."

-John Reel, senior

"I like to be outside and do hands-on activities in Ms. Tomlinson's class."

-Heather McCormick, senior

"My favorite thing to do is help Mr. Maxey work on the cars. I like hard work."

-C.C. Cousins, senior

Who is your favorite Social Studies teacher?

"Mr. Jones because I liked the teaching methods he used."
- Joshua Tanner, senior

"Mr. Servis because he cracks jokes about Homer Simpson."
-Jonathan Moore, sophomore

Right: Seniors Sharda Hamlett, Courtney Blanchard, Sammy Blankenship, and Amber Dunkley propose their purpose for president. Representing the Rock the Vote party, they tied Tysha Scott's presidential party for president.

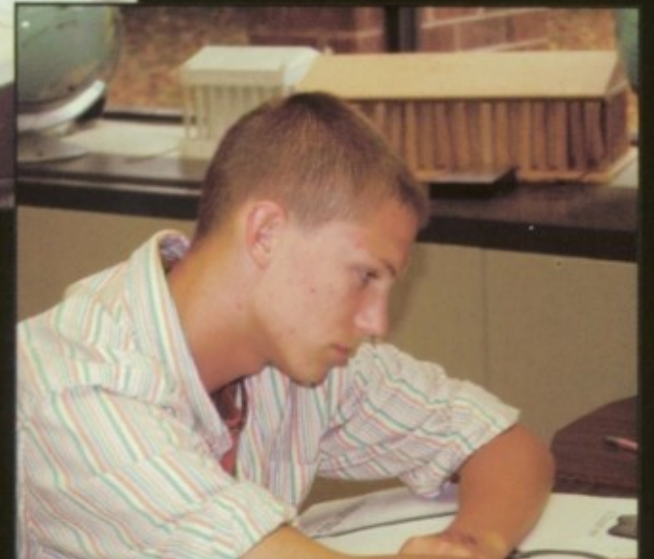

"Mrs. Butler because I think she's a very good teacher and she's really nice."
-Magan Mayberry, sophomore

Left: Rashawn Franklin, junior, works on a worksheet that Mrs. Butler gave him to fill in the blanks with answers from his textbook.

"Mr. Pettyjohn is my favorite History teacher because he made sure I understood the material and we played fun games."
-Ryesha Walker, junior

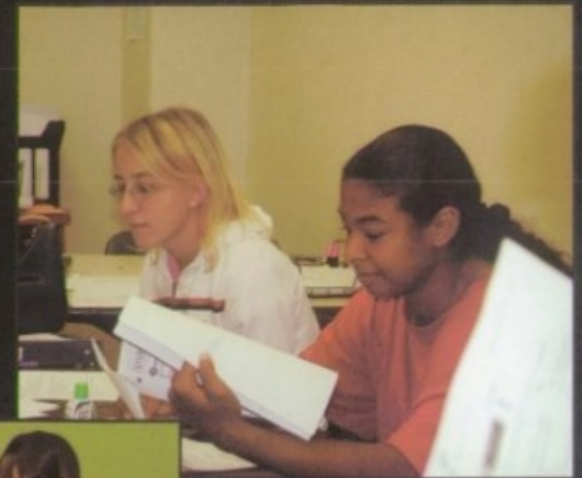

Right: Scott Hamlett, freshman, was busy on a poster for Mr. Jones's World History Part I Class on Greek Mythology. He got a B on his project.

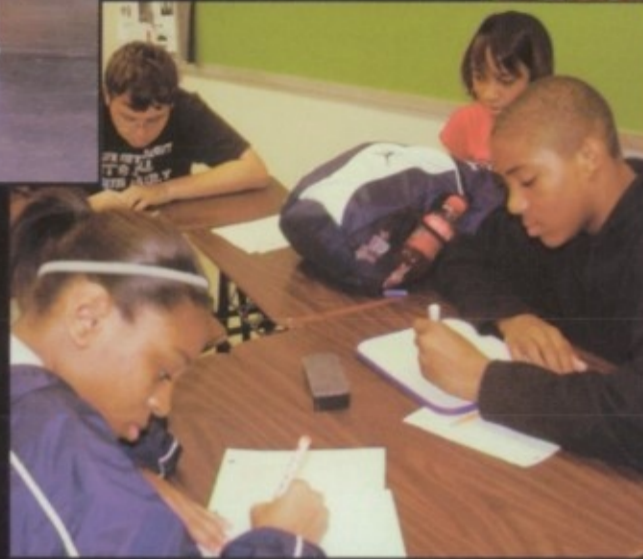

Right: Seniors Trevor Baldwin and Cedrick Furline compose a commercial for Mrs. Stump's 3rd block Government class. They lost to Tori Ferguson's party for president.

Right: Freshmen Achley Wingo and Danielle Lewis are on hot pursuit of finishing their classwork for Mr. Jones's class and turn it in before the day it was due.

Left: Senior Ryan Handy and Taylor McMillan try to the best of their ability to finish their Unit III test in Mrs. Stump's 3rd block government class before the end of the class.

History & Government

Right: Mr. Servis goes over a crossword puzzle with his students. As he read off the question, the students had to respond with a correct answer.

Right: Junior Mary Bryant concentrated on a test for her online Latin class. She passed the test with a ninety-one percent. Mary said, "Online classes are easy and I like them."

Right: Sophomore Ryan Stalker researched information for one of her weekly current events in her third-block journalism class. The current event was about the death of the famous female wrestler Fabulous Moolah.

Nurses Aid & Technology

Right: Sophomore KeShaun Hodge focused on a daily grade drafting project using a computer program to design a house.

Right: Coach Haymore explained to his media arts class what needed to be included in their powerpoint about selling merchandise.

What is your favorite thing about your nursing or technology class?

"My favorite thing about technology class is getting to take pictures and writing articles about interesting topics that are going on in the world"
- Jordan Henry, junior

"Being able to go out, take pictures, and create funny images through photoshop."
- Katelyn Hall, junior

"Going to the nursing home visiting and serving the senior citizens is my favorite thing about nursing class."
-Lamar Booker, junior

Right: While the rest of the class used computer programs, sophomore Drew Coleman took the difficult route by manually drafting a house in his drafting class.

Left: Junior Kelly Harnett obtained a lunch tray to serve to a senior citizen. This was one of her duties during her weekly visit to the nursing home.

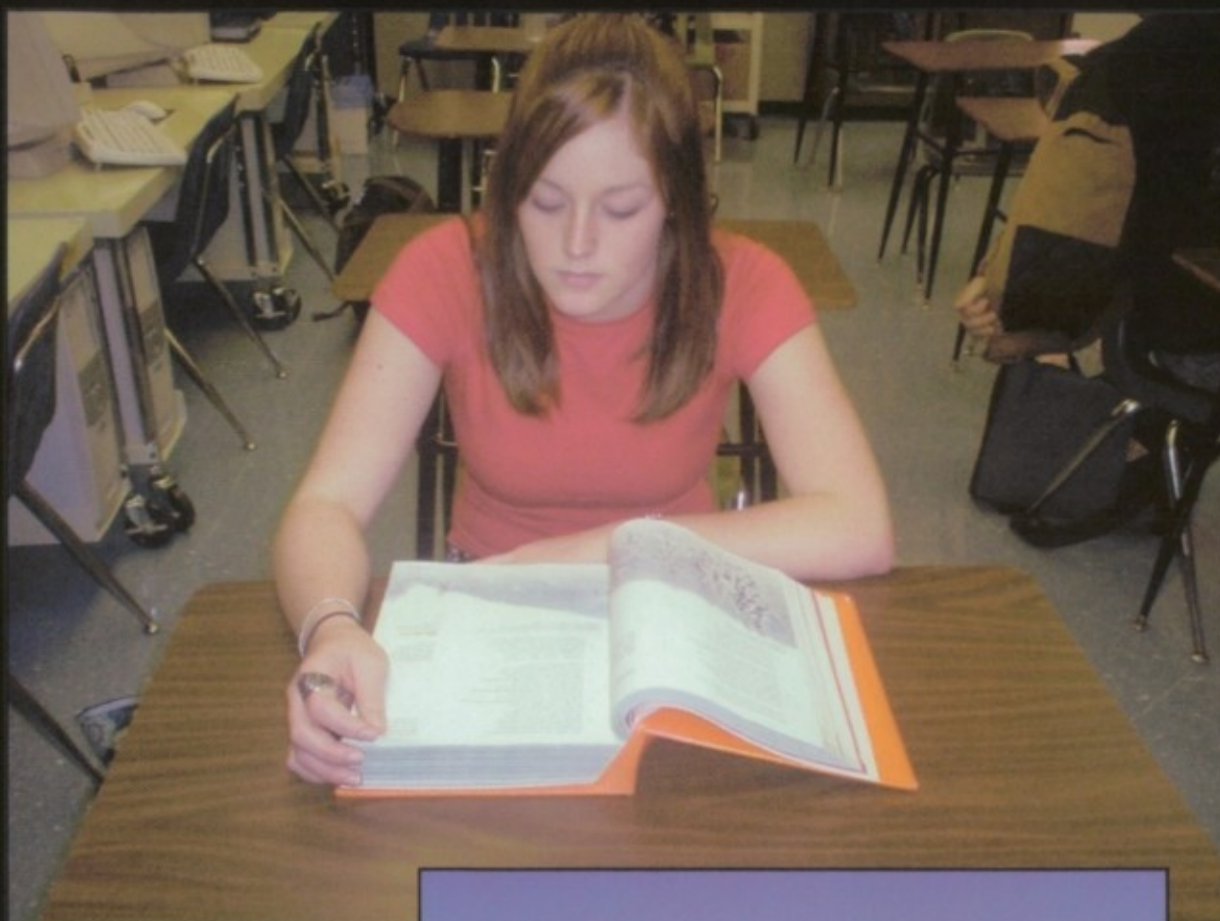

"My favorite thing about nursing is going to the nursing home to help care for the older people."
-Tiffany Irby, senior

What has been your most memorable experience in Language Arts or Foreign Language?

"My most memorable experience in Mrs. Seijo's Spanish class was when we played Spanish games and my team won all the points."

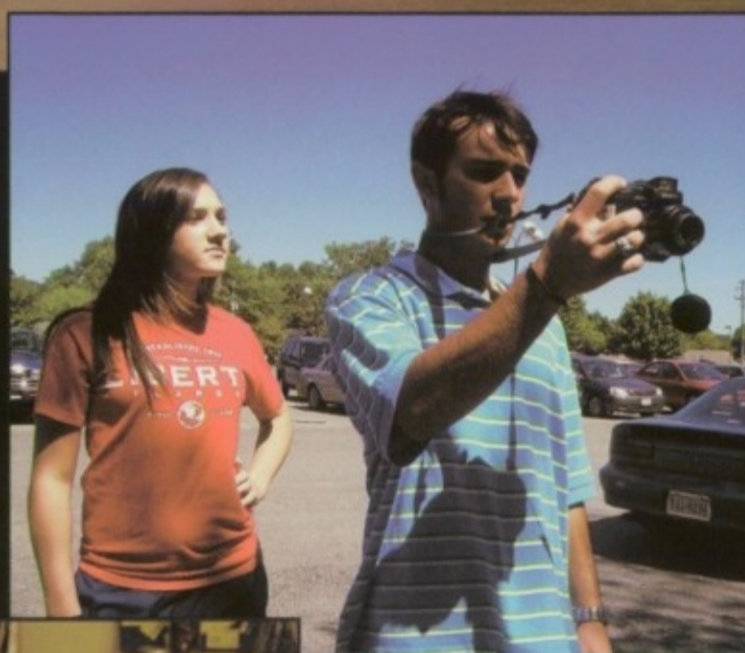

-Maria Christian, freshman

Above: Junior Ashley Wright read the epistle "Letters To An American Farmer" in Mrs. Williams's American literature class.

My most memorable experience was in Mrs. Leatherwood's British Lit. class when Roger Mayberry, explained his military career to the class. - Tiphonie Hutcherson, senior

"My most memorable experience was when we were in Mrs. Covington's French class and made food and brought it to her class. I made potato scallop."

- Matt Wright, sophomore

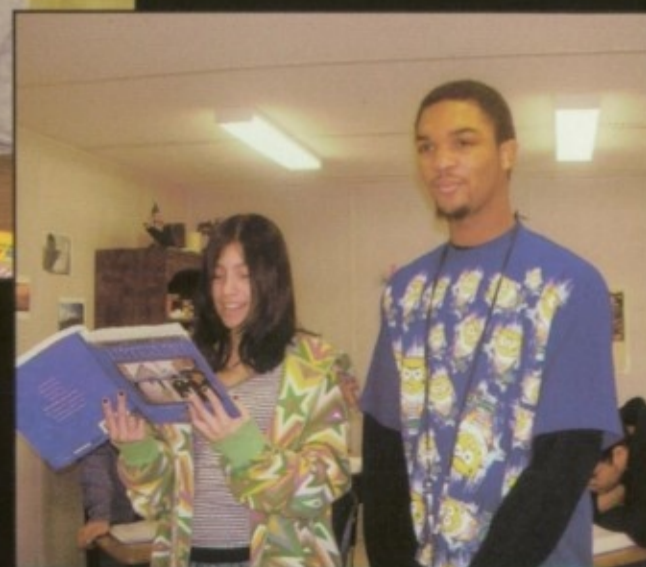

Left: Senior Kanisha Austin colored her initial during a lesson on illuminated manuscripts. This was a lesson during the medieval unit in Mrs. Johnson's college English class.

"My most memorable experience was 10th grade in Mrs. Doherty's English class and her and Zach Blankenship got into a disagreement because she would not let him have his way."

- Miranda Wiley, senior

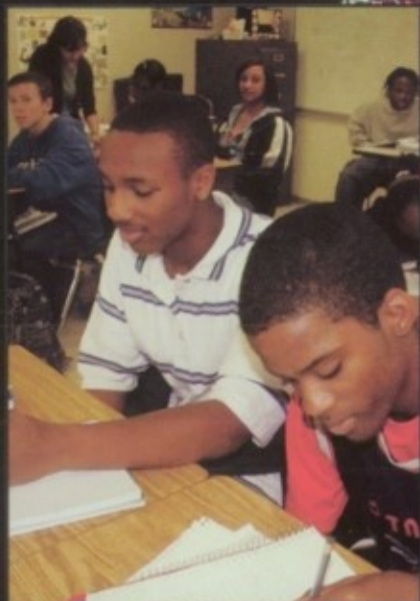

Right: Sophomores Idis Demecio and Kiarhee Watts stood in the middle of Mrs. Boyer's English 10 classroom as they acted out the play Antigone. They received a 100% for their participation grade.

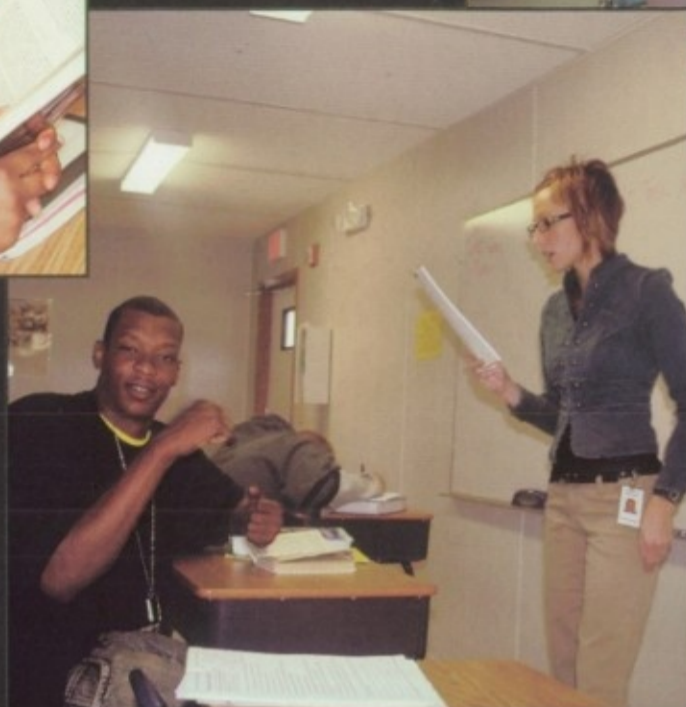

Right: Sophomore Juanita Jennings read her book Speak and received an 80 on the AR test in Mrs. Boyer's English class.

Right: Sophomore Jessica Page answered questions on a French 2 worksheet about French countries they had learned about earlier that week.

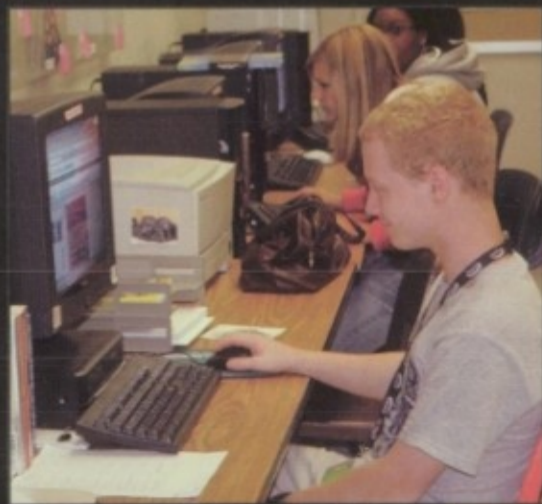

Left: Sophomore Mark Wright and freshman Jamal Robinson did their Spanish open book test together and got a really good grade on it in Ms. Siejo's Spanish I class.

Language Arts

English, Spanish, Yearbook, and French

Left: Sophomore Dominique Terry prepared to look at amoeba in Ms. Elder's biology class. "It was interesting to see how quickly they moved and their different colors and shapes."

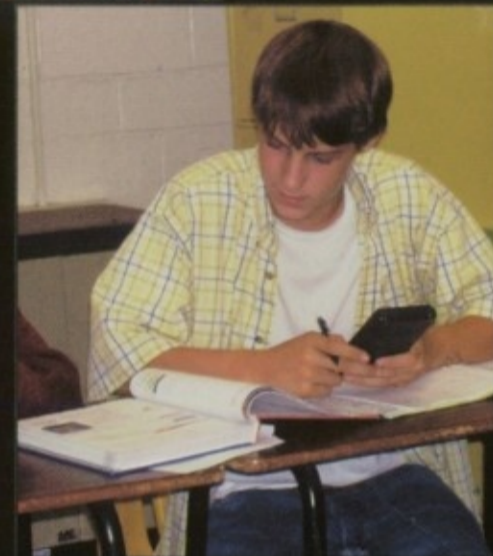

Sophomore: Joseph Thomas looked through a microscope at protists in Ms. Elder's biology class. "I like hands-on activities a lot better than sitting in class taking notes. I get to do and see more things better when I can do it myself."

Right: Mrs. Fahrman demonstrated how hydrogen is a flammable gas.

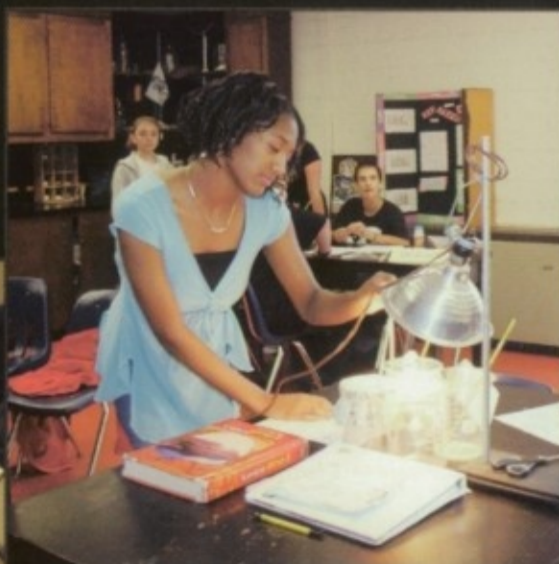

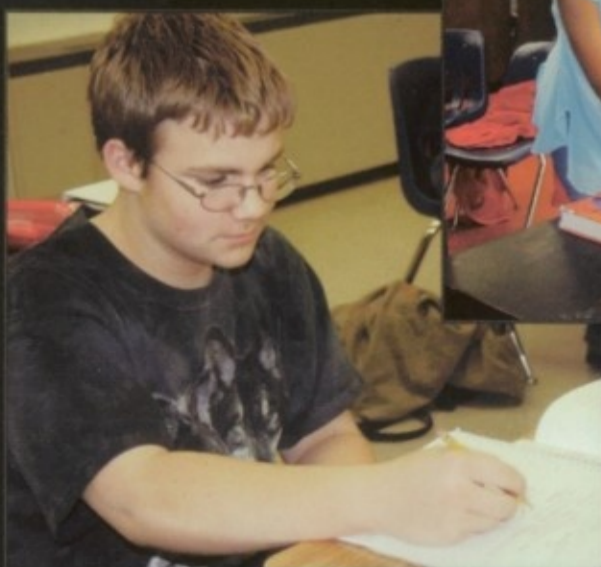

Mrs. Fahrman said, "One time I was too close and burned the hair on my arm, and another time I put too much oxygen in with the hydrogen, and we all got a much louder "boom" than what was expected."

Right: Freshman Cody Scott calculated classwork in Mrs. Martin's class

Math & Science

Bottom: Junior Dalton Lang prepared for an upcoming test in math class.

Top: Nukeshia Ross experimented on how heat affects different objects. She soon found out that plastic and aluminum are affected the most.

Left: Alyson Smith, freshman, filled a graduated cylinder with water for the density lab. The purpose of the water is to see which object falls the fastest.

What topic is most interesting to you in science and math class?

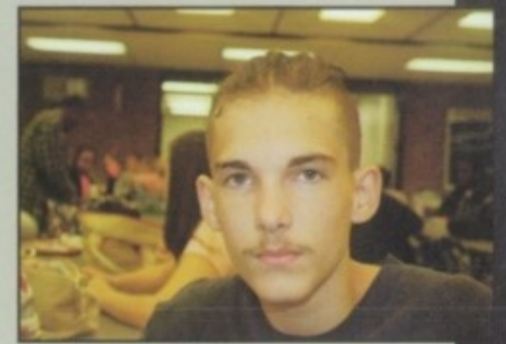

Above: J.T. Cederberg, Whitney Mason, Rachael Yuhas, Emily Clark, and Clifton Ray looked for the equilibrium constant for a chemical reaction using a spectrophotometer.

"My favorite part of math class was when we would perform order of operations on algebraic equations"

-Kaitlyn Amos, senior

"I like the topic of cloning, and I think it should be legalized."

-Aaron Hamlett, freshman

Left: Ms. Elder adjusted a microscope so her biology students could see the protists.

"Oceans, because I like how they work, and it's a subject that I do well in."

-Steven Iannaco, senior

Right: Crystal Morgan wrote down times for which object heated up the fastest. She came to the conclusion that most of the metals heated up the fastest, but water maintained the most heat for the longest, and put off the most heat.

Left: Sophomore Jasmine Hamlette looked at the board to see an example of order of operations in Mrs. Martin's Algebra I class. Jasmine said, "I really like like order of operations because it seems real easy to me."

"Order of operations because of what it means: Please Excuse My Dear Aunt Sally. That really helps me out a lot on tests and quizzes."

-Lashae Jackson, sophomore

Why do you enjoy FCCLA?

"It is the ultimate leadership experience!"
-Hannah Frazier, senior FCCLA President

Above: Senior Lewis Moore got the plates and ingredients ready to prepare food for a luncheon in his culinary arts class.

"We get to go to competitions and compete with other chapters in Virginia Beach and Orlando."
-April Garrett, senior FCCLA Treasurer

Above: Senior Allyson Taylor enjoyed a snack of chips while waiting for her psychology class to begin at the CVCC off-campus site.

"At competitions, we get to meet other people from all over the state who are as excited about FCCLA as we are."
- Ashton Dotson, senior FCCLA Member

Above: Senior LeAnne Belcher looked at the camera while thinking of ideas to stop violence at a FCCLA Stop The Violence training.

Right: Mrs. Campbell taught a lesson in her individual development class.

"FCCLA is like a big family and we care about each other."
-Miranda Wiley, senior FCCLA member

Right: Sophomores Riesha Baker, Chelsie Napier, and Taylor Moore listened to Mrs. Campbell teach about parenting.

Right: Junior Daniel Welch was concentrating to make sure that every answer was correct for his psychology paper. He must have done a great job of proofreading because he got an A!

Left: Senior Brittany Doyle tasted a Chik-Fil-A sandwich that FCCLA was selling to earn funds for the competition trip to Virginia Beach. They raised $200!

Left: Senior Heather Varady bought a sandwich and a drink to support the FCCLA members for the 2007-2008 school year.

FCCLA & CVCC

Sports

Every athlete at ACHS is famous. When the kids at our school step on to the field or the court it's like stepping out onto center stage. Everyone knows who made the winning shot at the game or how many touchdowns the running back scored on Friday night. Athletes in Appomattox can't escape the spotlight. The whole school comes to the games to watch them play!

1. The varsity volleyball team gathered together for a picture after their win against Goochland in the first round of regionals.
2. Senior Lauren Totty laughed while waiting for her cross country race to begin.
3. Sophomore M.J. Pennix and Junior Michael St. John trapped an Amherst player who tried to drive baseline and score.
4. Senior Timmy Dudley signed his scholarship letter to play baseball at Liberty University.
5. Sherri Koenig, junior, dribbled away from the goal to set up the Raider's offence.
6. Senior Jamon Simpson set up in his blocks to get ready to run the 400.
7. Joe Reed, freshman, put up a floater over an Amherst defender to score two for the Raiders.

1. Sophomore Bill Watson and Freshman Hunter Mason lined up on offense to protect their quarterback.
2. Sophomore Rico Rose led his team onto the field while proudly waving the American flag.
3. Nick Muddiman, junior, pinned his Rustburg opponent.
4. The varsity football cheerleaders were introduced by Jet Alive's Jimmy Lakes and Doug Marshall before the Chatham game.
5. Senior Drew Almond took his time to sink his putt.

"I'm glad that we came together as a family and finally had a winning season."

-Lewis Moore, senior

"The best thing about this season was actually going to the playoffs and having a great season."

-Dustin Boyce, junior

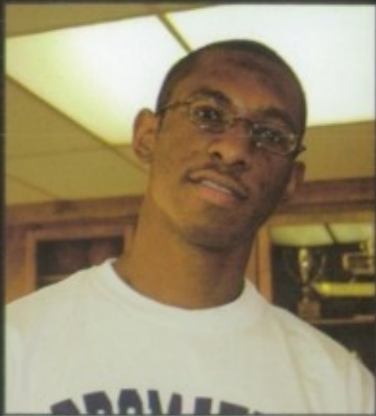

"I was glad that we had a winning season, and that we went to playoffs."

-Will Morgan, senior

"The excitement of the fans and all the big wins were the best things about the season."

-Andrew Bernard, junior

"All the guys coming together as a team and making it a winning season was a good thing about this season."
-Lamont Johnson, senior

Exciting and victorious explains this year's football season. Everyone got to see what the Raiders were made of. The boys focused, pulled together, and created a winning season. This was the first year in eight years for the Raiders to go to the playoffs. The fans boosted the teams confidence by attending games and cheering them on to victory.

"Turning our season around from last year and making it a winning season and becoming a better team was great."
-Michael Marshall, sophomore

Freshman Devanti Perkins made the kickoff for the Raiders in the game against Nelson County.

"The team worked better as a team which united us as a family."
-Marquis Harrison, freshman

The JV Football team got off to a rocky start. Losing their first game by one point had them determined to play a winning season. With an overall record of 5-3, the late night practices and games paid off. When asked how the team improved, sophomore Justin Ferguson replied, " We had a lot more people come out for the team, and we were able to separate from varsity more to have our own practice."

Freshman Hunter Mason, linebacker, said his proudest moment was when he made 13 tackles against Altavista.

The Raiders had an amazing season. They ended 19-5, which was the most wins of any team in ACHS history. The Raiders were led by five seniors who held their team together all season long. The girls said, "We have never had a closer team." This, of course, helped the Raiders excel and have their successful season.

"We had a great season and the team worked together well."

This year's wrestling team was one of the biggest Appomattox has had in quite a while. And one new senior was a star of the wrestling team. Steven Iannaco is his name and he took down opponents like a professional. Steven won the District Tournament and qualified for the state tournament. Coach Chris Conkwright reflected on the season by saying, "Our team goal was to develop a winning attitude, where winning matters. We accomplished this by having a 7-4 season record and qualifying three wrestlers for the state tournament."

"I think the team has really come along now that we have a full team. We should see lots of success in the coming years."

"I'm so proud that we went to states this year. We put a lot of work into it this season and it really paid off. I'm glad I got this experience before I graduated." - Melanie Mantiply, Senior

This season was very successful for the Competition Cheerleaders. The cheerleaders had hours of practice stunting, tumbling, cheering, and dancing every other day and even on Saturdays. Practices also consisted of a mixture of stress and fun. The hours of hard work finally paid off when the team placed third at regionals allowing them a spot at the state competition at VCU. This was the first time ever that the Competition team made it passed regionals and advanced to states. The girls and boys performed their hearts out at States, but lost by a point and a half to make second round. Even though there were not any first place victories the Competition team accomplished their goal to make it to state and have something to be proud of.

Junior Sarah Baines and sophomore Diamond Lawing preformed the crowd cheer "I say Appomattox, you say Raiders," at the game against Central Lunenburg.

The sideline season started off well. The team consisted of mostly sophomores, one junior and only two seniors. As the football team had a winning season, the girls really got the crowd involved and all their encouragement paid off. As for the basketball season, once again the team was taken over by sophomores, one junior and one senior. The team began the season with brand new cheers and chants to wow the crowd and get them involved which helped the basketball team pull out a victory.

Sophomore Raven Carter spirited and encouraged the crowd at the first home game of the season.

The JV team was extremely small this year, with only eight members only three sophomores, two freshmen and two eighth graders. Despite the smallness, the team enjoyed themselves and had a terrific season. As for the basketball season the team consisted of a lot of fresh faces. The new girls were faced with a lot of practice to learn all the new cheers. They eventually did and came out very confident and and made the best of the season.

Freshman Tori Thornton did the cheer "Go Raiders Go" and received a great response from the crowd.

Kaneesha Dews Freshman performed a toe touch. This jump can be very difficult because there are many factors that contribute to make the perfect jump.

The Varsity boys basketball team had many goals for this season and a promising group of young men who could achieve them. The Raiders got off to a rocky start only winning two of their first five games, but they pulled everything together as the season continued. The boys played their best basketball when it really counted. They started to play well together during the district tournament, which won them a spot in the regionals. The Raiders then defeated Randolph Henry and Clark County. These victories placed the Raiders in the regional championship game and automatically in the state tournament. The Raiders lost their next two games by 3 points each to end their season. Although disappointed, the team was proud of how far they made it, and with all but two players returning next year they plan to improve and go even further.
